

We look for centroids on vectors by looping through both the row and columns

